Dear Lexington Families,

Spring is near and we are ready to see the sunshine! Winter isn't quite finished with us yet. Please check the Kelso School District website for weather updates and snow route schedules in the event of inclement weather.

Reading skills are essential to your child's success in school and beyond. Reading improves cognitive and language skills, and supports academic growth. Reading with your child allows you to bond and build on those necessary foundational skills. This starts with establishing daily reading habits and routines. When reading with your child, the duration can be short at first, then increase over time. From there you and your child can create a reading list, set a goal, cut out distractions, and include other family members. Reading can be done on a tablet, or even listening to books. The most important thing is to encourage your child to read!

The first week of March is Literacy Week! Literacy is the foundation of learning and the week will be full of literacy at Lexington! We will have a week of spirit day, a free and fun family night and a school-wide Drop Everything and Read (D.E.A.R.) event.

Important Date Reminders:

March 5: Literacy Night 5:00-6:30
March 7: SCHOOL IN SESSION-Snow make up day
