Dear CSD Parents, Guardians and Community:

Out of an abundance of caution, Colton School District released all students from school today to investigate a threat that was emailed to the school district. The district worked closely with the Clackamas County Sheriff's office and at this time, investigators believe this is related to similar threats directed to numerous school districts in the region.

After consulting with the Clackamas County Sheriff's Offices, they have determined that the buildings are safe. As a result, Colton schools will reopen tomorrow morning with normal school hours.

Colton School District would like to reiterate that the Sheriff's office believes there is no credible threat. The Sheriff's Office was on site to support the district throughout this event.

Thank you for your patience with this matter.

Go Vikings!

Dave Kline
Superintendent, Colton School District 53
