The Student Council has been working hard for numerous occasions. Specifically, the 7th grade Student Council has been working hard to plan their 'Welcome Back' party. It took place at the Middle School at 7:00-8:30 PM on Friday, November 15. An amazing D.J. provided lively music, fun games, and thanks to our PTA- lots of snacks and yummy pizza! At the door, a $10 entrance fee was collected. Carpooling is always strongly encouraged due to keeping the rotunda unclogged. Hope you had a great time at the GCMS 7th grade dance!

GOP Gets Major Gain: Trump Wins Presidential Election

By: Winston Dong

On Tuesday, November 5, Donald Trump won the 2024 presidential election with a gain of popular vote (he is only the second Republican to do so since 1988) and just over half of the electoral vote. Republicans also regained control of Congress, though some votes are yet to be cast and the leader of the GOP in the Senate has not been settled upon, as the previous leader, Mitch McConnell, the longest-holding person of the seat in the body's history, has stepped down. The election has created enthusiasm and confidence for the President-elect's supporters (as seen by stock values rising on Wall Street as Trump's victory was declared), and trepidation and fear by others over the more controversial parts of Trump's political platform. Trump will meet with current President Biden in the White House tomorrow, beginning the process for the President-elect to officially enter his second, non-consecutive term as the executive of this country on January 20, 2025.

Soon to Be Mass TikTok Ban(?)

By: Alexandra Aw

Did you know that about 170 million people in the United States use TikTok? Keep in mind that the US population is about 346 million, beating Indonesia with 165.1 million users, so most TikTok users come from America. What happens when 170 million people log onto TikTok one day, only to find it outdated, old and wiped from the app store? That, ladies and gentlemen, may be what is to come in early 2025.

Say that there are about 1,000 kids inside of this school. That's us. Let's say 600 of those kids use the app TikTok, the social-media app formerly known as Musical.ly owned by ByteDance. That's 60% of our school. There are many schools in the area, and that shows how many kids our age use this app.

However, the app has numerous security flaws, and it does not guarantee safety of your data. Your personal information can be sold! That has been noticed by the US Government. Earlier this year, Congress passed a bill to wipe TikTok from all app stores on all devices, including TikTok.com, on January 19th, 2025 unless ByteDance sells the app to an American company, or the Supreme Court determines the act unconstitutional. Both actions have yet to happen, and the deadline is approaching. So, what does this mean for TikTok? Well, if nothing is done, the application will be pulled from all digital stores. While the app itself will remain on your device, and theoretically you can use it a bit after the ban, the app will eventually require updates and bug fixes to keep it running smoothly. Minor ones usually update automatically via your device's app store, and major ones require it to be downloaded with a button from the app store. However, with no app in any of the app stores, that's impossible. Unfortunately, TikTok will eventually, with no new updates, become unusable. Crashes, unable to function, even opening the app, won't be possible. That is the end for TikTok after that, but it doesn't end there. If the law bans all apps under the parent company, TikTok, that means other apps will be banned too. Specifically Capcut, a popular video and photo editing app, and Lemon8, an app similar to TikTok, but different in its own ways. However, do not fret, my friend! If you're an American TikTok user, consider the following information: The ByteDance CEO is currently trying to appeal the ban, and push the court case further. Secondly, if the Supreme Court determines the law is unconstitutional, the law isn't passed. Even our soon to be president, Donald Trump, is looking to veto (prevent) the ban. We'll see how that goes. If the ban does come into effect, don't worry! There are many alternatives to the beloved app that is TikTok, such as YouTube Shorts, Instagram Reels and Snapchat Spotlight. Guess what? Just like TikTok, they're all free + protected!

So what does this mean for TikTok? Well, it's unclear. All we can do is wait. But whatever happens, do not worry. Everything always happens for a reason.

That's Alexandra Aw from Phoenix, signing off until...

Inflation in the US.

By: Hailey Pappas

Across the country, there has been a recurring issue with inflation for the price of goods and services. It has been affecting many people of the lower class and causing them to have trouble providing for their families. This will be affecting the upcoming holiday, Thanksgiving. Families are going to have to plan to budget their meals. The prices of every day items still have not returned back to normal since COVID. Every food tradition that people eat on Thanksgiving is costing much more recently than years ago. For example, turkey is going to be more expensive. There will be different prices across stores. The name brand turkeys are going to be more expensive than non name brands. This will start affecting everyone and not just for Thanksgiving. News reporters say they don't know when this will end.

By: Kate Sullivan

Halloween, a holiday loved by many people, happens once a year on October 31. It is a time for people to dress up in costumes, go trick or treating, and then, enjoy the candy they collected! However, this year, there have been many headlines saying there is a cocoa shortage. About 70% of cocoa is produced by cocoa beans. Prices for candy and chocolate have gone up with Halloween just a few days away. The increase in candy and chocolate is due to the shortage of cocoa beans. Even though there is a shortage of cocoa beans there are plenty of other great candies to get for Halloween! Should everyone be worried about the holidays to come that are celebrated with chocolate?

Restoration Continues on Rembrandt's "The Night Watch" at Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam

By: Ian Straus

Many are familiar with Rembrandt van Rijn's, "The Night Watch". It was painted in 1642, and is undoubtedly one of the most famous and well-known works of art in the world. The renowned portrait shows extraordinary manipulation of light, which shocked everyone at the time, leading to a future of inspired and revolutionized artwork. Recently, the excess of dirt and varnish has been noticeably deteriorating and lowering the overall quality of the painting, and the workers of the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam have decided to take action.

Onlookers are allowed to watch the incredible intricacy of the workers, as they carefully use cotton swabs and microfibre cloths to uncover the former beauty of the painting. BBC states that "The Night Watch" was attacked numerous times with knives and acid, which greatly contributed to the lowering in quality of the masterpiece. Taco Dibbits, the museum's general director, says, "The start of the restoration is thrilling", hopefully meaning that the process is going very well. It began in July of this year, and has recently shown drastic improvements.

Many art enthusiasts enjoy the beautiful scene of seeing their favorite work of art become even better. The project has only increased the popularity of the painting, resulting in even more funds for it. Despite the significant progress the workers have made, the estimate for the restoration's completion, to be determined.

Wild Fires In New Jersey

By: Sophia Diaz

Wildfires are becoming a growing concern in New Jersey, particularly in areas like the Pine Barrens this past fall. This region's dry, sandy soil and dense vegetation make it highly flammable, especially during droughts. Human activities such as campfires, discarded cigarettes, and fireworks often spark these fires, which can spread rapidly and threaten homes and wildlife.

Efforts to combat wildfires include controlled burns to reduce combustible material and public education on fire safety. As climate change continues to alter weather patterns, New Jersey must stay vigilant in preventing and responding to these potentially devastating events.

The Game Everyone's Talking About

By: Jayden Armstrong-Patrick

Fortnite is one of the most popular video games in the world! It's an online game you can play with your friends or other players from around the globe. In Fortnite, you drop onto an island with 99 other players, and the goal is to be the last one standing. You have to find weapons, build forts, and fight to survive.

Cool Things

One of the coolest things about Fortnite is its Battle Royale mode, where the playing area gets smaller and smaller as the game goes on. This makes it more exciting because players are forced to come closer together and battle it out. You can also play in different modes, like solo (by yourself), duo (with a friend), or squad (with a team of up to four players).

Does It Cost Money?

No. The game is free to play, but you can buy cool costumes (called skins) and dances (called emotes) to make your character look awesome. Fortnite is always adding new stuff, like new maps, events, and even famous characters from movies, comics, singers and rappers.

The Ending

Many kids love Fortnite because it's fun, helpful, and lets them hang out with friends. Just remember, it's important to take breaks and not play for too long!

Cello Playing Robot??

By: Anika Pandey

A cello playing robot performed alongside the Malmo Symphony Orchestra in Sweden on October 17, 2024. A cello is a four stringed instrument with a deep and full sound. A cello plays a lower octave than the violin and viola, which is essential in an orchestra. The robot has an intricate 3D printed design allowing it to easily glide a bow across the cellos strings. Building the robot was a complex process because its hands had to be small enough to play the delicate instrument. It is impossible to replace human cello players, because the robot performed an expressionless and dull performance, unlike professional and experienced human cello players. Overall, it was an amazing technological achievement to make the robot play the cello.

Air Pollution

By Jasnoor Singh

Since late 2019, air pollution has gotten worse in India's capital city of New Delhi. The World Health Organization concluded below 100 AQI is safe, but New Delhi has an AQI of 939. With New Delhi's index being 839 over the W.H.O expectations this has caused many public schools to close and switch to online classes. Although in these conditions going outside is dangerous, many still choose to since without work, bills cannot be paid, and this air quality issue is not just in the capital. Cities all over Northern India's air quality is in steep decline due to North India having more factories and industrial areas. Although the government has taken measures to keep air quality safe, many criticize them for not tackling the main issues of factories and cars and instead focusing on minor issues like home coal usage. So while air quality declines in Northern India, scientists and the government should look for a solution for one of the largest issues in the nation's modern history.

Rockefeller Tree Lighting

By: Claire Wiechmann

The lighting of the Rockefeller Center Tree is always a well loved lighting event which thousands of people gather from all over the US to see. At 4pm people started lining up to enter 48th Street or 51st Street along 6th Avenue. Kelly Clarkson returned to host the 2024, lighting ceremony which started at 8PM with live music and performances including the Backstreet Boys. The lights of the tree flipped just before 10PM. This tree had more than 50,000 lights and 5 miles of wire!! It was topped with the iconic star weighing more than 900 pounds and is covered with 3 million crystals. This is an amazing tradition that has been going on since 1933!

Polar Bears are Invading Russia!

By: Olivia Bankowitz

Why are polar bears invading Russia? Does this have to do with energy, or the ice caps? Does it have to do with the heat, or the food? One theory is that the heat of global warming is chasing away the fish and melting the ice caps. Since the pre-industrial period, human activities are estimated to have increased Earth's global average temperature by about 1 degree Celsius (1.8 degrees Fahrenheit). This number is currently increasing by more than 0.2 degrees Celsius (0.36 degrees Fahrenheit) per decade. I know that this may not seem like a lot, but compared to the past, it is.

Another theory is that, because of the heat, the fish are scattering, and because of this, they also aren't breeding as much as they used to. Now, the polar bears don't have enough food. To get to the food they need, they go to the closest landform available.

Dozens of polar bears have invaded a remote Russian town, creating an 'emergency' situation. Russia might be famous for its bears, but this is ridiculous. An invasion of about 50 polar bears has now also caused an "emergency situation" in the small Russian settlement of Belushya, Guba, according to the TASS news agency.

A different theory is that, since Russia is so big, all the lights and sounds attract the polar bears, and they follow them, into the towns. All public activities in Ryrkaypiy, in Chukotka region, had to be canceled, and schools are being guarded to protect residents from the polar bears.

Is the NFL Scripted ?

By: Donovan Carroll

There have been rumors going around in the NFL that it could be possibly rigged. Rumors have it that Patrick Mahomes is being glazed and the refs are rigging it for him. The first 9 games the Chiefs have won all the games and there have been some questionable calls that favor the Chiefs. Last year was the peak of the scripted rumors after the Chiefs beat the Jets in week 4, 23-20 after a Jets player purposely didn't go after the tackle when Patrick Mahomes was scrambling and when Sauce Gardner intercepted Mahomes' pass. The ref called the pic back and they went down the field and won.

Last year, during the playoffs, the Chief's biggest challenger was the Detroit Lions. When the Lions were down by 1 to the 49ers, they did a fake kick and passed the ball to the offensive lineman. who went up to the ref and said that he was eligible but then the ref made the Lions redo the play and they lost. This triggers the question is the NFL rigged or is it legit?

Mike Tyson vs Jake Paul

By: Landon Stoller

Jake Paul, yes twenty-seven year old Jake Paul, the social media star turned boxer, challenged fifty-eight year old Mike Tyson on November 15, 2024. It was a fight between one of the best boxers ever and a former Disney channel actor. As expected, the much younger Jake Paul came out on top, but not before Mike Tyson won the first two rounds. Then, Paul settled in and won the next six rounds for a unanimous decision victory. Jake Paul landed 78 punches to a mere 18 from Tyson. To protect both boxers, they wore extra padded gloves. The gloves they wore were fourteen ounces instead of ten ounces. This fight was supposed to happen on July 20th, but got postponed due to Mike Tyson's ulcer flare ups. After the fight, a reporter asked if Mike Tyson would ever box again. Mike's response was "I don't know maybe". All in all, the purpose of this fight was most likely a money grab for the boxers and a publicity stunt. However, this was a great pop culture moment.

Jones BENCHED Devito Starting

By: Trip Paisley

The Giants benched their starting quarterback, Daniel Jones to start Tommy Devito. The reason the Giants have benched him is because he was not performing as well as they wanted. He was moved to third string. This weekend Tommy Devito will play against the Buccaneers who are 4 and 6. The coach is hoping that Jones gives them more momentum in the future and for the remainder of the season.
