

Creativity-Practibility Receive Outlets

Terry Klick admires the registered Yorkshire gilt which started the swine chain for the Ashley FFA Chapter. Terry cared for the gilt until the arrival of the first litter which was given to other members of the FFA. Terry received full possession of the gilt at this time.

Boys in vocational agriculture and shop classes seek more knowledge which could increase income and community participation. Livestock, soil conservation, and parliamentary procedure were the major topics for discussion in the agricultural classes taught by Howard Bryant.

Duane Lane, teacher for the shop classes, has been helping the boys learn a special skill which will help them in the future. Craftsmanship with wood materials was their assignment throughout the school year.

A gun rack, one of Jon Lauer's shop projects, receives some finishing touches.
